County Politics.

The interest in county politics all cen ters on the choice of two senators. The names of the republican senators appear at the head of this page and their opponents are Frank N. Carr of St. Johnsbury and Alex. Cochrane. The two latter were nominated at the democratic convention and by previous agreement were ratified at a so-called county convention of the local option-high license party which was held the following night. Mr. Carr is a high license republican selected because of his popularity and his chance to draw votes away from his fellow townsman on the republican ticket. Mr. Cochrane is one of the best known men in the south part of the county and is a democrat, Both Mr. Carr and Mr. Cochrane are men who would vote for Clement in the legislature, if the contest was decided there, and they are standing on a platform endorsed by Mr. Clement.

Beyond any personality in the campaign is a principle and the election of Dr. Stiles and Judge Graves means that if necessary they would each vote for Gen. Mc-Cullough for governor. We believe that Gen. McCullough will carry Caledonia county on a popular vote and if the election is thrown into the legislature how unfair it would be to have her two senators vote for Mr. Clement.

Dr. Stiles has been criticized for a change of base. He stated before the caucus be was not in favor of high license and now he says he stands upon the state platform which, to quote the exact words of the platform, requests "the state legislature at its next session to make provision for ascertaining the will of the people by direct vote upon the acceptance or rejection of a license and local option law regulating the sale of intoxicating liq-

On the position of Dr. Stiles we agree with our contemporary, the Lyndonville Journal, when it says:

"It is always to be understood that the relevendum is to be a part of the legislative proceeding and that no law of whatever nature which relates to the liquor question shall become a law until a majority of the people of the state of Vermont demand it. Now where is the inconsistency. Dr. Stiles personally is against high license. He hopes to represent Caledonia county in the senate. It a majority of his con stituents demand high license he sees no reason to contend that right and he will stand by the referendum first, last and always."

The Brattleboro Phoenix was the first paper in the state to advocate Proctor's nomination, but since the convention is has done more for Gen, McCullough than any other paper in the state. And the best part of it all is that it is doing it in a fair and dignified way. Some of our contemporaries seem to think that the best way to defeat their political opponent is to abuse him and his party,

THE BRADFORD RALLY. Clement Cornered.

(From a Special Correspondent). The republicans down in Orange County are sawing wood all the time. Mr. Clement run his car on to the siding at Bradford and held a ratification meeting in the village hall. This served to wake up the leaders and just eight days later the republicans held a grand rally in the same building. The east side of Orange county was represented by leading republicans from all the adjoining towns to the end that the hall was solid full of people and many were unable to get inside the building. Gen. McCullough, Senator Dillingham and F. C. Archibald were the speakers and they spoke well too. Many old time republicans who have been in the harness since the party was new affirm that it county. No one was disappointed in those men. No one expected a campaign of mud and vilification. These men do of the present campaign were discussed in a masterly manner. Mr. Clement was answered and well answered too. The Lyndonville Military Band was on hand with its best selections.

Horace W. Bailey, the Orange county member of the state committee presided. and at the conclusion of the meeting surprised the large audience by saying that he believed that Percival W. Clement was a political liar, that he was insincere, etc. Then holding up six affidavits declared, "Here is my proof." These affidavits were from the town of Orange in Orange county. Four of the affidavits related to straight purchases of votes reading of all these affidavits, but that he would read one as a sample and that the others could be examined by any one who desired to become better acquainted with the Clement style of purchasing of sale read by Mr. Bailey:

State of Vermont.

Orange County, ss. I, Alonzo F. Elmer, of Orange in the County of Orange, on oath depose and say that I am a resident, taxpayer and voter of the town of Orange; that on the day of the caucus last held in the town of Orange for the purpose of electing two delegates to attend the State convention at Montpelier to nominate a governor. one Harlow Smith, of Montpelier, approached me and asked me to vote for Clement delegates to said convention and in consideration of easting my vote as he, Smith directed said Smith gave me the sum of $2.00 for said vote.

A. F. ELMER. Subscribed and sworn to before me Orange, in the County of Orange. FRANK D. BURGESS, Notary Public. After the reading of this affidavit, Mr. Bailey said that it is now apparent that around, with the plain people Clement was traveling up and down the state crying "Stop thief" for the sole purpose of attracting attention away rom himself. You can understand, said the speaker, why old Orange county sent one Clement delegate up to the state convention-he was bought and paid for with Mr. Clement's money.

"Why didn't this man Clement make up his ticket from 'high license' men? Why wasn't it just as important to put high license men at the bottom of the ticket as at the top? Because he is a coward and didn't dare to. Why did he put John L. Bacon on that ticket after Mr. Bacon had repudiated the whole business. Here is what John says about it in a letter to me: 'Regarding conversation with P. W. Clement prior to convention I will say, he called me up one day, and remarked that the local-option league were to hold a convention in Burlington during that week, and that he did not know whether they would put a state ticket in the field or not. Then without any reply from me upon the subject he went on to ask me what reply would I make if addressed by the localoption league and asked to state my position upon high license. I replied that I was unalterably opposed to high license as a method of governing the liquor traffic, but that I was very much in favor of carrying out the promise of the republican party in its platform, regarding the submission of a license localoption bill to the people by the next legislature. He remarked that he did not think that would suit the league, and hung up the phone, and I have not heard a word by phone or letter from P. W. Clement since.

'Do you think," said Mr. Bailey, "that it is high license or the governorship that Voters who attended this rally went home with something to think about.

Mr. Dooley on Reformers.

More spice is added to the Vermont campaign by Mr. Dooley's observations which are as follows;

"A ra/ormer thinks he was ilicted beof th' matther is he was ilicted because no wan knew him. Ye can always ilict a man in this country on that platform. If I was runnin' fr office I'd change me name, and have printed on me cords: 'Give him a chanst; he can't be worse, He's ilicted because the people don't know bim, an' do know th' other la-ad, because Mrs. Casey's oldest boy was clubbed by a polisman, because we cudden't get wather above th' third story wan day, because th' sthreet car didn't stop ('rus, because th' Flannigans bought a piano, because we were near run over y a mail wagon, because th' saloons are open Sundah night, because thy're not open all day, an' because we're tired seein' th' same face at th' window whin

Political Comment. News from All Sides of an Exciting Campaign.

Mr. Clement is basing his hopes of success upon the crowds that attend his rallies. But here is a rally where there was less than a baker's dozen. A press

"The Clement rally at Marshfield Thursday was a dismal failure. The attendance was twelve, including three prominent democrats of Cabot, speakers were A. B. Rowley, of Richford, W. W. Wishart, of Barre, and F. A. Bailey, of Montpelier. The latter is a candidate for state's attorney on the fusion ticket in Washington county.

Rig Republican Rally.

The great republican rally at the Morrisville camp grounds yesterday afternoon was one of the notable occasions of the campaign. The best aggregation of speakers that have yet appearwas the cleanest and most convincing ed in the campaign were there and these nolitical meeting ever held in old Orange were advertised to speak in the list: Lamoille county's favorite son, Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. J. G. McCullough, Dr. W. Seward Webb, Hon. Fletcher D. Proctor, not stoop to such methods. The issues | Hon. Kittredge Haskins, M. C., J. L. Mr. Clement said that it was not his aim to simply throw the election into the general assembly for there he realizes that his chances would not be as good as General McCullough's for this reason: voters. The following is the sample bill He expects that McCullough will carry a majority of the smaller towns whose vote in the legislature will count as much as the large towns he expects will go for him. So he is bending all his energies to secure the election by popular vote in September and is very confident of his success.

Prohibition Literature.

The prohibition party is circulating considerable literature throughout the state and from one of their circulars these extracts are taken:

If you believe that the misery producing, crime breeding, law protected, law breaking rum holes, euphoniously termed by their advocates and apologists, high icense local option saloons are unmitigated and intolerable evils, then vote for this 4th day of August, A. D. 1902, at Joel O. Sherburne, prohibition candidate or governor.

Prohibition has been stabbed in the louse of its friends. It was deliberately sacrificed in party convention to placate Clement and his saloon followers and they spurned the sacrifice. The republican party no longer "stands by" prohibition. Its speakers do not advocate it, but declare that the republican and lement liquor planks are the same as did Hon, I. L. Martin at Barre, McCulough, Clement, McGettrick-"three of a kind"-not one opposed to open murderous liquor saloons on our streets. Will the prohibition element continue to follow a party that treats them and their conscientious convictions and a righteous law with such unprincipled disregard? That sacrifices the just for the unjust! Indications are plenty that a host of them will not, but will assert their principles by refusing to vote for any manfor representative or senator-who is not solid for our prohibitory law and will rebuke the party disloyalty "to its long cherished" position by voting for that only candidate who is true to prohibition, Joel O. Sherburn, for governor. Rebuke disloyalty and reward fidelity by giving Sherburn a tremendous vote and the republican party will not dare enact license law in Vermont. Vote for Sherburn and peaceful homes.

Workmen employed in tearing out the inside of the White House the other day unearthed, deep down under the basement, a portion of a human skeleton. The mysterious discovery was made while the laborers were excavating a subcellar below the floor of the basement for the new heating apparatus. After going down about ten feet a massive stone vault was encountered. It proved to be what was apparently the foundation walls of an old house that had evidently stood on the spot where the White House was afterward erected. It will be remembered that the land upon which the White House and adjacent public buildings stand is made land, developed to its present condition by filling in and grading. In this same excavation was found an immense oven imbedded in the stone wall, and in close proximity to the oven were found the bones. The workmen believed they

He has already secured the friendship of such representative men as Senator Frye of Maine and former Secretary of State William R. Day, with whom he was associated as secretary of the Spanish commission which met in Paris to consider terms of peace after the Spanish war. The minister has an interesting famfly, who will join him in the early autumn. Senora Ojeda has a large acquaintance in Washington and is described as a handsome and gracious matron. A daughter, who is about twenty, and a son, who will be an attache of the legation, complete the household. Senorita Ojeda is said to be unusually lovely, and her advent will be warmly welcomed. The diplomatic corps at present contains but one woman, the Countess Marguerite de Cassini, daughter of the Russian embassador. The pretty young countess has been undisputed queen, but it is said that she will find a rival in the daughter of the Spanish minister.

Improved Postal Finances. For the first time in nineteen years the postal system promises something better than a big deficit on its annual business. As far as it has been possible to forecast, the excess of expenditures over receipts for the fiscal year 1902 will not exceed and may not quite reach $1,500,000, or less than half of the smallest total since 1883.

The fiscal year 1883 ended, leaving a postal surplus for the year representing a net revenue of about $2,692,000. The next year this was turned into a right of tranchise has yet to be given the deficit of more than $3,000,000. For the two years of 1893 and 1894 it rose to between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. In 1897 it rose to its high water mark, $11,100,000, and since then has declined annually.

Printing Bureau Bld Lowest,

The government probably will print its own postal stamps as the result of the bids opened at the postoffice department the other day for the contract for supplying the adhesive postage stamps for the four years beginning Oct. 1. It had been stated that the price asked by the bureau of engraving and printing was considered exorbitant and that the work would have to go to a private concern. The bureau's bid, however, proved the lowest. It is 5 cents per thousand for ordinary postage stamps, 7 cents per thousand for postage due stamps, 15 cents per thousand for special delivery stamps, $2.82 per thousand books containing twelve stamps each, $3.45 per thousand books containing twentyfour stamps each and $4.46 per thousand books containing forty-eight stamps each. The only other bidder was the American Bank Note and Engraving company of New York, whose bid is estimated to be about $15,000 higher for the four years than the bureau's bid. Judge Ross and the Referendum.

The letter by ex-Senator Jonathan Ross about Vermont women voting for the referendum, which was first published in Tribune. the CALEDONIAN, has elicited much comment throughout the state. Here are some newspaper opinions of a varied

Judge Ross expresses the opinion that he legislature may if it so desires give the women a chance to vote on the question of a high license local option bill. If this should be done there is no question that such a bill would meet an overwhelming defeat .- [Barton Monitor. It might be entirely proper to allow the women to vote on this question, but it would be peculiar, to say the least, to give them the privilege to vote on a referendum and nothing else.-[Brattleboro Phoenix.

If the party means to act honestly with itself and the people, it will not pursue such a course as Judge Ross advises Had it been considered best to include the women of the state in the referendum, it would have been so decided and plainly stated in the ante-election dec laration. To adopt such a plan, as an alterthought, would be to play fast and oose with the political honor of the party, which is no less sacred than indi-

If the referendum could be constitutionally invoked to get prohibition in, it will occur to most people that it can be invoked in a like way to test public sentiment now. Anyhow, the republican party is squarely pledged to attempt it, and there should be no trifling with honor, no attempt to defeat plainly set purposes by subterfuges. - [Randolph Herald and News.

Judge Ross thinks the women of Vermont should be consulted if there is to be a referendum on the liquor question. Thus another complication arises through the effort to have the constitutional law making power of the legis lature turned over to the people, where it was never intended to be placed.

Why shouldn't the women vote? They are as much concerned in the matter as the men. If the legislature is to abdicate its functions why should any line be drawn as to who shall exercise those functions? If the state is to depart from the general course of law making in this instance is there any reason why it should not depart from the general course the men and that there ought not to be | terprise. a decision in which they are not heard. It will be a hard matter for the advocates of referendum to meet their arguments .- [Montpelier Argus.

This well known authority on constitutional law gives it as his opinion that there would be nothing unconstitutional about such a transaction. This should settle further controvesy on this point, The honorable gentleman, it seems, strains a ligament of his mind when he expresses the opinion that women can be allowed to vote on the question. The good ladies of the state, before they are permitted to cast a ballot for any candi date on any issue. Up to allowing the regularly constituted voters of the state an opportunity to say they will stick to prohibition or cast it aside Judge Ross is sound. When he strains a point and would allow women who have never him! -[Burlington Clipper.

Political Press Comment.

With a referendum in view it would be folly for republicans to be led by the high license will o' the wisp into the Clement camp, and perhaps to sacrifice a United States Senator and judges of the supreme

The Phoenix does not believe that Mr. Clement or Gen. McCullough countenanced or directed the buying of votes or of talse affidavits. Both men are wealthy and both had money to expend for campaign purposes. The lieutenants to whom they entrusted their work and their money may have gone beyond the bounds of propriety and honesty. "Having found by personal experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medi-cine of rare virtue, and having seen dozens of cures where my suffering sisters have been dragged back to life and usefulness from an untimely grave simply by the use of a few bottles of that Compound, I must proclaim its virtues, or I should not be doing my duty to suffering mothers and draggedout housekeepers.

"Dear Sister, is your health poor, do you feel worn out and used up, especially do you have any of the troubles which beset our sex, take my advice; let the doctors alone, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it is better than any and all doctors, for it cures and they do not."-Mrs. E. C. SMITH, 1212 Oak St., Treasurer W. C. T.
